A Letter from the Director

Dear cast and families,

This show has been a long time coming. For almost two years, I have been working on the script to this play that you will see today. It has gone through tremendous change over time, with character names being wildly altered and entire settings being added to make this all-over-the-place tale make sense.

Two summers ago, I was volunteering at the theater summer camp run by my director, Adam DeCoste. It was a relatively large group of students that we worked with in this particular session, so Mr. DeCoste had an idea to have everyone split into groups and make up a completely original fairy tale and perform it for the rest of the kids. I want to thank my small group of elementary schoolers for inspiring me to write “Happily Ever After?” as a full-length production.

I hammered away at this play for about two months until I believed it was finished and ready for my friends and family to read. Mrs. O'Neill was one of the first to get it, and when she read it she almost immediately floated the idea of putting it on here at the middle school. I was honored to have my work considered for such a talented group of kids to perform. I want to thank Mrs. O'Neill for being so supportive of me throughout this process, and giving me so much insight into the world of organizing a production, which is no easy task.

These middle schoolers are so unbelievably incredible to work with. Each one of them brings something special to their part, no matter how many or how few lines they have. They all understand the significance of the fact that they are each the first person ever to play the role that they are. I want to thank all of them as well as all of you for supporting this little passion project started by a 16 year old kid who will be almost an adult seeing it all be put together.
